HISTORICAL

Under the Constitution of the State of Ohio as it existed up to 1912, all legislation relating to cities was inclined to be "general legislation," that is, applied uniformly to all cities of the state. This was true of all cities which did not adopt a home rule charter.

However, on September 3, 1912, a constitutional amendment (Article 18, Section 3) was adopted, extending to municipalities the power to adopt charters with a greater amount of home rule provision than existed previous to that date. This authority, if taken advantage of and passed upon favorably by the citizens, would permit such cities as desired "to exercise all power of local self-government and to adopt and enforce within their limits such local police, sanitary and other similar regulations as would not conflict with general laws."

The history of the municipal government in Ohio has been a constant struggle between cities trying to obtain legislation suited to their respective needs, and the legislature trying to ward off the demand for special legislation which threatened to consume all its time.

Originally the legislature could enact special legislation for each separate city, but the demand for such legislation was so great that the constitution of 1851 provided that no such special laws should be further passed. The demand for special treatment for municipalities different from each other in every conceivable way was so insistent, however, that the constitutional provision was circumvented by classifying cities according to population so that each city was practically in a class by itself.

Again the legislature was overwhelmed by local legislation about which it was almost entirely ignorant. In 1902 the Supreme Court of Ohio declared this type of legislation to be unconstitutional and the legislature was obliged to frame a municipal code applying hard and fast rules to every city in the state. Finally the demand for treating cities according to their needs resulted in the passage of the 1912 amendment allowing each city to adopt a charter for itself.

The reader can see from this explanation that Cincinnati, or any other city under the old regulation, could only enact laws for its government through the state legislature. If the law were changed for Cincinnati, it would be changed for any other city, and in the case of a change by other municipalities, Cincinnati would be obliged to follow under the same new law.

Legislatures, chiefly composed of legislators from districts remote from municipalities who were not familiar with the various cities, would cause the passage of some of these regulations. Again the reader can see the fallacy of such procedure.

FIRST CHARTER 1802

The act to incorporate the town of Cincinnati was passed at the first session of the Second General Assembly at Chillicothe and approved by Governor Arthur St. Clair, January 1, 1802.

CHARTER 1815

The first charter under Act of 1802 was repealed by an act of January 10, 1815. This act, effective April 1, 1815, reincorporated the territory covered by the first act. The officers of the town were mayor, recorder and trustee.

CHARTER 1819 (First City Charter)

Cincinnati's life as a city began with its first charter in 1819, when by an act of the General Assembly it was vested with the power of a council, composed of president, recorder and nine trustees. This act was passed February 5, 1819 and by virtue of an emergency act took effect March 1, the same year.

Several acts were passed during 1821 and 1824 wherein provisions for election of additional officers and division of cities were added to the charter.

CHARTER 1827

On January 26, 1827 the second act incorporating the city of Cincinnati as a city was passed repealing all other acts. This act took effect March 1, 1827. Some amendments were added to this chapter in 1829 to enlarge its scope.

CHARTER 1834

On March 1, 1834 there was passed "An Act to incorporate and establish the City of Cincinnati and for revising and repealing all laws and parts of laws heretofore enacted on that subject."

The act, superseding the charter of 1827, remained the fundamental law of the city until the adoption of the new state constitution in 1851.

STATE CONSTITUTION 1851

After the adoption of the state constitution in 1851, cities were governed by general laws which were modified by the state legislature almost every year.

CHARTER 1917

After the amendment to the state constitution of 1912, which provided ways and means of securing a charter for the various cities, an attempt was made to adopt a charter under these provisions in Cincinnati. This first attempt was unsuccessful, but on November 6, 1917 the voters of Cincinnati approved a new charter that was to provide home rule except in taxation matters.

1924 AMENDMENTS

The 1917 charter was amended in 1924 by the voters of Cincinnati, establishing the city manager form of government and the small council nominated by petition and elected at large by the proportional representation method of voting.

CHARTER 1926

The committee that wrote the 1924 amendment realized that the charter would have to be further amended to make it conform to the city manager form of government and to give our city real home rule. They therefore provided that a charter commission be appointed by council in July, 1926. Accordingly, council appointed three Cincinnatians as follows:

Robert Taft, formerly floor leader of the House of Representatives at Columbus, Ohio.

Robert Gorman, who had been Solicitor in a number of communities of Hamilton County and who had experience in interpreting municipal law.

Henry Bentley, president of the City Charter Committee, who assisted in writing the amendment passed by the people in 1924 and under whose leadership the amendment was adopted.

Howard Bevis, Professor of Law of the University of Cincinnati, who was appointed secretary of the commission.

The charter was drafted and three public hearings were held in accordance with law. Some minor changes were made in the original draft which was finally presented to the voters in November, 1926, adopted, and is the charter of the city of Cincinnati and the fundamental law of our municipality.

1947 AMENDMENT

The General Assembly of Ohio, on June 26, 1946, amended Section 4003-11 of the Ohio Municipal Code empowering city council to increase the amount of taxes assessed and levied for the support of the municipal university from .55 of a mill to 1 mill.

In a resolution adopted by the board of directors of the University of Cincinnati on July 29, 1947, the board not only requested a .55 of a mill levy for university purposes for the fiscal year of 1948, but also requested council to effectuate the amended state law by submitting to the electorate at the November 4, 1947 general election, a charter amendment to provide for the additional .46 of a mill levy for university purposes.

The amendment (Section 3a of Article VIII) was approved by the electorate.

1949 AMENDMENTS

The city council in 1949 determined that the city charter should be reviewed and a study made, in order that consideration could be given by council to amendments or supplements which such a study might indicate were advisable and necessary, and to be submitted to the electorate at the November 8, 1949 general election.

To accomplish this purpose an ordinance was passed unanimously by council appointing a committee of three citizens of Cincinnati to make such a study. The members of this committee were:

B. Gates Dawes, Jr., insurance executive.

Robert P. Goldman, lawyer, associated with Paxton & Seasongood, Attorneys.

Stanley G. McKie, state senator of Ohio, and vice-president and secretary of Weil, Roth & Irving, municipal and corporation bond brokers.

The committee held appropriate hearings and submitted a report embodying a number of amendments. The report advised council that the committee had recommended only amendments which had the unanimous approval of its members.

After due consideration council determined to submit certain of the amendments and withhold submission of the balance.

The amendments were submitted at the November election and approved by the electorate:

Article II, Section 3 - Ordinances prescribing rates and charges by publicly-owned public utilities may not contain emergency clauses unless introduced at least three weeks before final vote is taken and public hearing held.

Article II, Sections 4 and 5 - Article III, Sections 1 and 2 - Beginning with the council elected at the November 6, 1950 election, the two-year term of office will commence on December 1st instead of January 1st.

Article IV, Section 6 - Article IV, Section 10 - The office of city auditor was replaced by a department of finance and the city manager authorized to appoint a director of finance, and other subordinates, including a city treasurer.

All legislative powers of the city shall be vested, subject to the terms of this charter and of the constitution of the state of Ohio, in the council. The laws of the state of Ohio not inconsistent with this charter, except those declared inoperative by ordinance of the council, shall have the force and effect of ordinances of the city of Cincinnati; but in the event of conflict between any such law and any municipal ordinance or resolution the provisions of the ordinance or resolution shall prevail and control.

Section 3.

The initiative and referendum powers are reserved to the people of the city on all questions which the council is authorized to control by legislative action; such powers shall be exercised in the manner provided by the laws of the state of Ohio. Emergency ordinances upon a yea and nay vote must receive the vote of a majority of the members elected to the council, and the declaration of an emergency and the reasons for the necessity of declaring said ordinances to be emergency measures shall be set forth in one section of the ordinance, which section shall be passed only upon a yea and nay vote of two-thirds of the members elected to the council upon a separate roll call thereon. Section 4.

Subject to the terms of Article IX, Section 1 of this charter, a council of nine members shall be elected for a term of four years, commencing on the first day of December next after their election and shall serve until their successors are elected and qualified. Any ratified pay increase shall become effective immediately after the investiture of the next duly-elected members of council, following the ratification of such increase by council, and may not be retroactive. Said increases shall not compound from year to year. Should a vacancy occur, the members of council certified by the former member are empowered to designate a successor within 60 days of the vacancy by a majority vote of their members or of those remaining thereof. The signed designation shall be filed with council within the 60-day period and shall be presented by council at its next regular meeting.

Should there be no valid and effective successor designation certificate for a vacant office, the council may fill the vacant office by a majority vote of the remaining members within 30 days of the vacancy. Should the certified members of council fail to designate a successor within 60 days of the vacancy, council may fill the vacant office by a majority vote of the remaining members within 30 days after the time allowed for the certified members' designation has expired. Should council fail to fill the vacancy within the time prescribed, the mayor shall appoint the successor without requiring the consent of council.

A person designated as a successor or named to fill the vacancy by action of council or the mayor shall, upon taking the oath of office, have the status of a member of council duly elected for the unexpired term.

bears a relation to the planning of the city, and to make changes in additions to and extensions of such plans or maps when it deems same advisable. Such maps and plans shall show the commission's recommendations for the location and extent of streets, alleys, ways, viaducts, bridges, subways, parkways, parks, playgrounds and other public grounds and public improvements, of public buildings and other public properties, and of public utilities whether publicly or privately owned, for water, light, sanitation, transportation, communication, power and other purposes; and for the removal, relocation, widening, extension, narrowing, vacation, abandonment or change of use of any of the foregoing public places, works, buildings, or utilities. Such maps and plans may also include the division of the city into zones or districts, in accordance with the commission's recommendations for the limitation and regulation of the height, bulk (including percentage of lot occupancy and set-back building lines) and use of buildings and other structures and premises in such zones or districts.

Section 4.

The commission shall have the power to control the marking of historical landmarks; to control, in the manner provided by ordinance of the council, the location of statuary and other works of art which are or may become the property of the city, and the removal or relocation of any such works belonging to the city.

Section 5.

Whenever the commission shall have made a plan of the city or any portion thereof, no public building, street, boulevard, parkway, park, playground, canal, river front, harbor, dock, wharf, bridge, viaduct, tunnel and publicly or privately owned public utility, or part thereof, shall be constructed or authorized to be constructed in the city or said planned portion of the city until and unless the location thereof shall be approved by the commission; nor shall any street, avenue, parkway, boulevard or alley be opened for any purposes whatsoever without the approval of the commission; provided that in case of its failure to approve, the commission shall communicate its reason for failure to approve to the council, and the council by a vote of not less than two-thirds of its members shall have the power to overrule such failure to approve, and thereupon the council or the proper board, officer or person, as the case may be, shall have the power to act without such approval. The widening, narrowing, relocation, vacation, or change in the use of streets and other public ways, grounds and places, except change of grade, shall be subject to similar approval, and failure to approve may be similarly overruled by the council.

Section 6.

No amendment of the zoning ordinance of the city or of the zone map shall be made, passed or enacted by the council until and unless such amendment shall be approved by the commission; provided that in case of its failure to approve, the commission shall communicate its reason for failure to approve to the council, and the council, by a vote of not less than two-thirds of its members, shall have the power to overrule such failure to approve and to make, adopt or enact the proposed amendment.

Such regulations may include requirements as to the extent to which and the manner in which streets and other public ways shall be graded and improved, and to which water and sewer and other utility mains, piping or other facilities shall be installed, as a condition precedent to the approval of the plat. In lieu of the completion of such work previous to the approval of the plat, the commission may accept a contract secured by a bond in an amount and with surety satisfactory to the city manager, providing and securing to the municipality the actual construction and installation of such improvements and utilities within a period specified by the city manager and expressed in the contract and bond. The city solicitor is hereby granted the power to enforce such bonds by all appropriate, legal and equitable remedies. All such regulations shall be published as provided by law for the publication of ordinances, and before adoption a public hearing shall be held thereon, and before the same becomes effective a copy thereof shall be filed with the clerk of council. In addition to the powers expressly specified in this charter, the commission shall have all powers of control over plats and subdivision granted to city planning commissions by the statutes of Ohio.

Section 8.

All plats of the subdivision of lands within the corporate limits of the city or within three miles thereof, and all instruments of dedication of lands for public use, shall be submitted to the commission and approved thereon in writing by it before they may be offered for record or accepted by the city. The approval of the commission shall not be deemed the city's acceptance of the dedication of any street, alley, way or other public ground shown on the plat or set forth in the instrument.

No street, alley, way, or other public ground shall be accepted by the city as a public street, way or ground, unless the plat and location thereof shall have been submitted to and approved by the commission; provided, however, that council may submit to the commission any ordinance proposing to accept the dedication of any such unapproved street, alley, way, or ground, and if approved by the commission, council shall have the power to accept the dedication thereof by a majority vote, or, if disapproved, by a vote of not less than two-thirds of its members.

No consent of the owner of property abutting on any public way or public grounds shall be required for the construction, extension, maintenance or operation of any street railway, provided the city planning commission approves the same.

For purposes of this provision, service for more than eighteen months shall be considered a full term. The members now serving shall continue in office until the appointment and qualification of a new board under the provisions of this section, at which time their present terms shall cease and determine.

Subsequent to the effective date of this section, the mayor shall appoint three of the members now serving to new terms of one year each, and the other two members to two-year terms. The board of health shall have all other powers
